DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claims refer to an aluminum alloy containing 2.0-3.5 wt% magnesium, and the remainder of 99.9 wt% or greater high-purity aluminum. It is not clear whether applicant intends the language of the claims to be interpreted as “open” or “closed” with regard to the composition of the alloy. For the purpose of examination, the term “containing” has been interpreted to mean “comprising” (open language), and the term “remainder” is not considered “closed” language.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 1775

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hasegawa et al (US 5,988,262). Hasegawa teaches a sputtering target comprising an aluminum alloy. The alloy comprises aluminum having a purity of at least 99.9 wt% and contains 0.1-3.0 wt% of an element such as Mg. Regarding the term "anodization adapted", this term is not considered to structurally limit the alloy.

Claims 1, and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hasuo et al (JP 10-088271). Hasuo teaches an aluminum alloy having 99.9 wt% purity Al, and 0.35-2.5 wt% Mg. The alloy is suitable used in plasma chambers and plasma treatment apparatus.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thach et al (US 6,659,331). Thach teaches a plasma-resistant aluminum alloy structure. The alloy is a high-purity aluminum with 0.1-6 wt% Mg, and 0-0.1 wt% Ti. While Thach does not specify the purity of the aluminum, one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the reference would have found it obvious to provide the aluminum with the highest purity available, as it is clearly taught by Thach that high-purity aluminum is needed and is duly expensive (col. 9, lines 26-37).
